

SureWatch – Protecting banker’s credentials from the Dark Web.

With SureWatch from UFS, banks gain clear visibility and awareness to critical digital credential data being used by cybercriminals on the Dark Web. SureWatch empowers community banks to identify breaches or data exposures early - in some cases before criminals have exploited the stolen data.

SureWatch Features:

SureWatch brings awareness and protects banker’s identity credentials on the Dark Web. This is a key solution for community bankers to proactively identify how their credentials are being used to avoid being a target for compromised activity.

SureWatch is comprised of three key features:

Automated Dark Web Scanning –

Search engine scanning and monitoring that constantly looks for a bank’s domain in name or contacts that are visible on the Dark Web.

Compliance Reporting –

An initial comprehensive report is provided to the bank that identifies potential breaches or data exposures. New reports are provided as new alerts are discovered.

Remediation Guidance –

Remediation guidance – a document that provides the bank with recommendations and suggestions for how to proactively minimize a potential breach or data exposure.

Why SureWatch?

SureWatch allows a bank to be more proactive and aware about how information gets disbursed or accessed on the Dark Web. This solution delivers confidence.

The Dark Web is made up of digital communities that sit on top of the internet. It is estimated that more than 50% of all sites on the Dark Web are used for criminal activity.

Far too often, companies, and in particular banks, have had their personal and company login credentials compromised and sold on the Dark Web. Typically knowledge of this activity occurs far too late.

Threat intelligence is a key ingredient for strong compliance and cybersecurity. SureWatch is a UFS cybersecurity innovation that increase bankers confidence that their credentials and security will remain safe.

For more information, visit:
www.ufstech.com/surewatch

UFS is the technology outfitter for community banks that inspires confidence for community banks by providing purpose-built solutions while making technology work for the banks, instead of the other way around.